A BIT OF BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Order of the Little Sisters of Hoboken was founded in the seventh century by Saint Wilfrid, a bishop of England. He established the first convent and school known as the Wilfrid Academy. His motto was "We don't teach beauty - we radiate it!" Many years later a small group of pioneering sisters set out for America to establish a motherhouse in Cleveland. But they got off the plane in Newark by mistake. The order was "found" by the Newark Airport Police and the new motherhouse was established in Hoboken, New Jersey. It was at that time that the Order of St. Wilfrid elected to change the name to the Little Sisters of Hoboken and they have been affectionately known as the "Little Hobos" ever since. It was from this convent that Sister Mary Regina, Sister Mary Hubert and Sister Robert Anne, set sail for the Mediterranean to establish their leper colony. Today the order has both nuns and brothers as members - all doing various good works in the Diocese of Newark. They also operate Mount Saint Helen's School in Hoboken.

CAST NOTES

Sister Mary Regina, the beloved and most respected Mother Superior of the Little Sisters of Hoboken, regrets to inform the order that she just may give showbiz a try if the benefit is successful. She's not going to resign her position, however. She wasn't encouraged by the Sisters to pursue that dream; they reminded her the most difficult line for her to remember was "Go To Church."

Prior to taking her vows, Mother Superior was known as Ann Wilson Floyd, and is a veteran of changing her clothes on stage, although she reportedly refused to wear a bathing suit to raise money for the good Sisters of Hoboken. Anne is married to Kevin Floyd, and has two children, Megan 6, and Richard 3. A dedicated mother and loving wife, she works at Media Masters, Inc..

Sister Mary Hubert, the "gentle, but firm" Mistress of Novices, said she also considered leaving the order for the spotlight, but reconsidered on hearing that Mother Superior may leave. "Perhaps now I can be number one, instead of just being a perfect number two," she said.

Sister Hubert is the former Dorothy Ann Williams, and is known for practicing her dance steps around her office at the Department of Health and Environment Control, where she is a home health nurse. Most of her spare time is centered around her son, Michael David, 10, although she admits to frequently practicing her most noticeable trait, her guttural and infectious laugh.

Sister Mary Robert Anne, the station wagon-driving, tobacco-spitting nun of the Little Sisters, said she was ecstatic to finally get a solo spot and show off her street fighting skills to the Franciscans.

On the inner-city streets, her former stomping grounds, Robert Anne was known as Sue Fienning. She is married to Chuck Fienning and they have four sons. She is President of the Board of Habitat for Humanity of Sumter.

Sister Mary Amnesia, still has a bump on her head. Her memory loss isn't restricted to her name, either, but includes stage direction and ad lib instructions. It is said that she strongly resembles her counterpart, Sister Mary Annette, when she isn't under the watchful eye of Sister Hubert.

Before she lost her memory, she was called Michelle Yvette Blassengale. She teaches music at Alice Drive Elementary School and also sings and directs her church choir.

Sister Mary Leo tells Reverend Mother that it's her destiny that her name is short for "leotard," and that therefore she should be allowed to wear a tutu. As you will see, Reverend Mother could care less. Leo dances divinely in her traditional habit.

Before she became a ballet dancer, Leo was called Ann Martin Smith, and she works as an administrative assistant and has two sons, Blake, 21, and Clarke, 18.

Sister Joni Mabry Brown is hoping that her music will save her soul, because the nuns have discovered that her singing voice surely won't. Sister Joni leads The Mt. St. Helen's Eruptions featuring Sister Linda Beck a choral director in School District 2, on piano and Brother Jay Shealy, a manager at Southeastern Chemical Co. on percussion.

When she's not making heavenly music with the nuns, Sister Joni is director of bands at Bates Middle School and is School District 17's Teacher of the Year.

Sister Kelley McMillan had her work cut out for her when she joined this order. "Teaching singing nuns to dance was certainly a challenge," she said. But Sister Kelley has taught many unsuspecting children how to dance at Miss Libby's School of Dance. She's married to Chip McMillan and they have two sons Hugh, 6, and Matthew, 3.
